Credco. Now even better.

The dynamic insights of First Advantage CREDCO and First American Information Solutions Company converge.

We are CoreLogic Credco

As you may have heard, we are excited to announce that on June 1 First Advantage CREDCO, along with the Information Solutions Company of First American Corporation, will become an all-new publicly traded entity named CoreLogic (NYSE: CLGX). With more than 10,000 dedicated employees worldwide, we will begin our first day as one of the premier providers of business information, analytics and outsourcing services.

The power to do even more for your dealership

What does this mean to you? Credco's more than 50 years of industry experience has joined forces with access to one of the world's largest consumer and business information databases - which means we can do even more for you, and your dealership.

We are incredibly excited about Credco's continued evolution in the automotive industry and our ability to deliver bold new data-driven solutions to better assess your business challenges - and gain the dynamic insights you need to reduce risk and improve business performance for your dealership.

To learn more about the new CoreLogic Credco, or if you have questions about the Credco products and services you enjoy today, please contact your Credco Account Representative by calling (800) 694-1414 or visit www.CredcoServices.com.
